Notice.

DIFFICULTIES arising from the nature of the following work, the publisher has been compelled to remove to Philadelphia for the better execution of his plan. The editorial department has in consequence fallen into other hands. Mr. ALLEN's present engagement rendering it impossible to superintend it in another city. The friends and relations of the different signers to the Declaration of Independence are therefore requested to direct their favors to the publisher, No. 443, Market-street, Philadelphia.

PROPOSALS
By Joseph M Sanderson,
For Publishing by Subscription,
A Biography of the Signers
OF THE
Declaration of Independence,
Accompanied with Plates.

To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are affixed to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exercise of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemoration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprizes of man, none has awaked into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature, none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no favorable prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptible rights of humanity by the "mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors;" and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world; their names will not pass away nor be forgotten, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.—Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed, that the state of Brutus brought death on its possessor.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the sleeps of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his hut the emblems of his father's valour.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the patronage of our fellow-citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our biography, upon the generosity of their surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers or half volumes of 200 pages, octavo, and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontispiece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence with engraved fac similes of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States.

II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery.

ODE.

Oh! weep for the hero, whose ashes repose,
In the slumber of ages, on Trinidad's shore!
Oh, weep for the hero, whose valor still throws
O'er Erie its glory—though the victor's no more!

In the battle's fiery storm,
Had ye seen the hero's form—
Had ye seen the hero's eye,
Serene amid death's revelry—
Ye would weep that spirit fled,
To immortal glory wed—
Ye would weep that form laid low,
Wept even by the conquer'd foe,
Unequal in the combat high,
Though rivals in humanity.

Bring the laurel to the grave,
Where sleeps in death the conq'ring brave!
Mighty bards! rehearse his fame,
Give fame, in death, to PERRY'S name;
Communicate the electric fire,
And every patriot heart inspire—
Wherever COLUMBIA'S flag's unfurl'd
The NELSON of the western world
Shall live, amid the battle's fray,
In ERIE'S fight—and win the day—
Bear COLUMBIA'S banners high,
Stars that beam in ERIE'S sky.

In the tears of her love, in the weeds of her wo,
Lo! the widow, the orphans of PERRY appear—
Ah, desolate fair one, who now shall bestow
The balm of the soul, or the smiles that endear! [his shrine,
Yet could sympathy sooth thee, it flows from
His love was his COUNTRY—her tears mingle with thine. HEBRON.

POPULARITY.

On this subject, the editor of the Baltimore Morning Chronicle, has the following just remarks:

"What is vulgarly called popularity, is a drug so cheap in the political world, that it is unworthy the acceptance of an honorable and high-minded man: it may be obtained by sycophancy, double dealing, and by falsehood; it requires the exercise of no other talent than that of deception; the false patriot has nothing more to do than to make pompous promises, and to neglect to comply with these promises when made, and he will obtain vulgar popularity in abundance. Real popularity is a bird of a prouder plume, and metaphorically speaking, may be said to belong to the aqueline genus—he wings his way to the centre of light and glory, while he bears plaudits from the glaring multitude below; he is still glaring on the beams, and finally if he does not reside in the blaze, it is not for want of effort, but because he has no atmosphere, where he can exert the energies of his wing."

There was lately a challenge passed between two of the sable race, attended by the following extraordinary circumstances. A black man by the name of Cuffee and another by the name of Pero fell in love with the same sable Dulcinea. Cuffee was rewarded with her smiles, and was married—Pero, indignant at his rejection, declared that he was entirely reconciled to the match, since the sable beauty was equipped with lips too thick for his delicate enjoyment. This report was conveyed to Cuffee, who declared it an utter falsehood, and gave a challenge, that was promptly accepted. Cuffee came on the ground with a pair of loaded horse pistols, and waited the appointed time for his antagonist, who did not appear. Cuffee then discharged his pistol in the air, in token of triumph, and then declared that "he would post his antagonist for a coward as soon as he could find any one capable of writing such an article for a newspaper." [Balt. Morning Chron.

A HARD MASTER.

Old Astley, one evening when his band was playing an overture, went up to the players, and asked why they were not playing. They said they had twenty bars rest. 'Rest, (says he) I'll have nobody rest in my company; I pay for playing, not for resting."

DOUBLE SHUFFLE.

What is your name? said a gentleman to a porter. My name, replied the fellow, is the same as my father's: and what is his name? said the gentleman—It is the same as mine. Then what are both your names?—Why they are both alike.

Mr. Curran, cross-examining a horse jockey's servant, asked his master's age. I never put my hand in his mouth to try, answered the witness. The laugh was against the counsel, till he retorted, 'you did perfectly right, friend, for your master is said to be a great bite."

ALEXANDRIA:
TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 19

CHANGE OF WEATHER.

At New-York, on the 13th inst. the weather was so cold that ice was found in some parts of the city; and in several places in the immediate vicinity of the city it was found about the thickness of a quarter of a dollar. The Mercantile Advertiser remarks that on the decks of the steam boat Paragon, which was on her passage that night from Albany, ice was found of the thickness of a dollar. A passenger informs that there was snow on Wednesday at the Highlands. At Philadelphia, on the same morning, there was ice of the thickness of a dollar. The Gazette mentions it as a cheering circumstance for the health of their sister cities.

HEALTH OF LONDON.

A late Liverpool paper says, "the strongest proof of the health of the metropolis was given in the weekly bill of mortality, ending the 26th of July, in which it was stated, that in the 97 parishes within the walls, there was not one burial."

Mr. JEFFERSON, we are sorry to learn, by a letter received in town, was attacked on Friday last with bilious cholic, which much alarmed his friends for his safety. At the date of the letter, however, the disease had mitigated, and he was on the recovery—For a year or two past, we believe, the health of this distinguished citizen has not been as firm as usual. [Wash. City Gaz.

Daniel P. Cook is elected to Congress from the state of Illinois, by a majority of 740 votes, agreeably to the returns which have been made to the Secretary's office.

Among the bequests in the will of the late Governor Langdon, of New-Hampshire, are 500 dollars to the American Bible Society, 1000 dollars to the church of which he was a member, and 500 dollars to the church under the pastoral care of the Rev. Mr. Walton.

We have seen letters from Madrid, which state, that our minister, Mr. Forsyth, in his communications with that court, on the subject of the Florida Treaty, had assumed an attitude of the most vigorous character—It is probable that his dispatches will not be published until the meeting of Congress. In the mean time, the President has full power to make every arrangement to meet any future contingency, which may be expected to grow out of the rejection of the Treaty, by the Spanish government. [Phil. Union.

Halifax papers to the 29th ult. have been received at Boston, which contain a proclamation of the Lieut. Governor of Prince Island, relating to the late convention between Great Britain and America, in which it is declared:—'That, if any vessels or subjects of the United States, be found fishing or preparing to fish, within three marine miles of any part of the coasts of the Island; or shall attempt to use any part of the coasts of the Colony, for drying or curing Fith, or for other purposes, connected with the Fishery, that the most prompt measures will be taken for enforcing a due adherence, on their part, to the stipulations contained in the said convention.' ——— [Ibid.

A letter from Spain says, "Our Ferdinand is too much devoted to pleasure to attend to business.—He has been a widower about seven months, and is to be married forthwith, by proxy, to a Saxon Princess not sixteen.—She will immediately repair to Spain, and it is hoped, after the honey-moon is past, he will find time to retrace his late mad and foolish steps." [Boston Centinel.

From the Palmyra Register of October 6.

ASTONISHING PRESERVATION.

After the regiment which had met here on Friday last, was disinissed, a young man by the name of Henry Jones, was shot through the body with an iron ramrod, by a person whose gun accidentally went off while in the act of ramming down the charge. The rod entered his left breast just above the centre, and came through near the point of the shoulder blade. The rod lodged in his body—its head within about six inches of his breast. it was drawn out the same way that it went in. Although thus severely wounded, it is gratifying to be able to state, that there is now a fair prospect of his recovery.

The U. S. frigate Macedonian sailed from Valparaiso, April 24, for the coast of Peru, to protect the American whale ships. Lord Cochrane was reported to have enticed some of their men from them. There were said to be 70 American whalemen in the Pacific Ocean. Ld. C.'s blockade pretence is that neutrals have no right to a trade in war, that they did not enjoy in peace. [Bos. Pol.

The convention to frame a constitution for Maine, met at Portland, on the 11th inst.—Some difficulty is apprehended in determining on the seat of government. [Ibid.

Government have advertised for transports to convey troops from Boston to Mobile and New-Orleans. ——— [Ibid.

It is said that a Spanish royal squadron was blockading the Revolutionary Island of Margaretta, at the last dates.

GRAND MANAN.

We learn, (says the St. Andrews, N. B. Herald,) that Col. Arnold, and two other officers of the engineer department have arrived at St. John, in the armed brig Chebucto, from whence they will proceed to Grand Manan with an intention of fixing upon some position on the Island to fortify. We are happy that government has at length turned their attention to this important Island, as from its situation, it must necessarily command the entrance to the Bay of Fundy, and in the result of a war must give the party possessing it a decided advantage in that quarter.

TENNESSEE LEGISLATURE.

Evidence of respect.—While the clerk this day was reading the rules of decorum, drawn up and reported by the committee appointed yesterday, General Andrew Jackson was discovered to be among the spectators in the lobby—the clerk was stopped on motion of Mr Grundy, who moved that the Gen. be invited to a seat within the bar—the House unanimously voted in the affirmative and the members tendered the high evidence of their respect, by rising as the General entered.

We understand the whale ship reported by an arrival at Alexandria, to have stranded at the Isle of May, was the barque Archimedes, Coffin, on her outward voyage from this port, which ran upon a rock near the Island, and lost nearly all her cargo. [Bos. pap.

Accounts from Brussels announce that the Emperor of Russia had offered the assistance of 300,000 troops to guarantee the safety and independence of Germany, which has been disturbed of late by the creation of numerous secret societies. Statements from this quarter, however, are not always to be depended on.

A HOAX.

Some person having found means to get communications inserted in some of the city newspapers, stating that a number of fine southern horses were to enter on the New-Market course yesterday, and that there would be an interesting trial of speed between the horses of our own state, and those of Virginia, a great number of gentlemen from the city attended to witness the sport. On arrival at the race spot, they soon found that they had been most wantonly imposed upon, and that the only race they would see would be between two horses, both bred on Long-Island. Having come such a distance, about 20 miles, the most of them went to the spot and saw the race accordingly, which was won with too much ease, by one of the horses, being in fine order, against the other, who was in no condition. And then they returned, nearly as they went. There was a plenty of Long-Island negroes on the ground, and a number of tents with wheel of fortune tables, pharo tables, and other species of undisguised gambling; in short, the whole scene was disgusting. But, if we are not mistaken, it is the last time such a despicable farce will ever be acted at New-Market. [New-York paper.

ANTIQUITIES.

On the river Huron, thirty miles from Detroit, and about eight miles from lake St. Clair, are a number of small mounds, situated on a dry plain or a bluff, near the river.—Sixteen baskets full of human bones, of a remarkable size, were discovered while sinking a cellar on this plain for the missionary.

Near the mouth of this, on the east bank, are ancient works representing a fortress, with walls of earth thrown up, similar to those of Indiana and Ohio.

At Belle Fontaine, or Spring Wells, three miles below Detroit, are three small mounds or tumuli, standing in a direct line, about 10 rods apart. One of these has been opened; bones, stone axes, &c. were found in abundance. About one-fourth of a mile below these are still to be seen the remains of an ancient fortification. A breastwork, in some places 3 or 4 feet high, encloses several acres of firm ground, in the centre of an extensive marsh. [Detroit Gazette.

ZODIACAL LIGHT.

The beautiful light seen in the heavens on Tuesday evening, about half past 8 o'clock, is considered by a gentleman of science, an attentive observer of such subjects, to have been the Zodiacal Light By the subjoined description of that light, translated from a French astronomical work, his suggestion would seem to be correct. [Franklin Gaz.

Extract from de la Lande's Astronomy.

The zodiacal light has commonly the form of a spindle, or of a lens seen edgewise. Its point is formed by the meeting of two right lines, at an angle sometimes of 26 and sometimes of 10 degrees. When the atmosphere is not clear it is seen truncated or bent in the form of a scythe; but, in general, its figure is that of a lance, of a spindle, or of a pyramid.

"I have heard Mr. de la Caille say, that on his voyage to Africa, he found the zodiacal light extremely distinct in the torrid zone, where it rises perpendicularly."

In addition to the above, Rees's New Cyclopedia describes the Zodiacal Light as "a brightness resembling that of the milky way, but less bright, and which is sometimes perceived in the heavens, at certain times of the year, after sunset, or before its rise.—Some have supposed, that this phenomenon is the same with that which the ancients called trabes, a term by which they denoted a meteor, or impression in the air like a beam."

"In the torrid zone, the zodiacal light is frequently or almost constantly seen. At or near our latitude, it may be seen about the time of the equinoxes." "This phenomenon was first discovered by Descartes, and by Childrey about the year 1769." "The length of the zodiacal light varies some times in reality, and sometimes in appearance only, from various causes." Its extent from the sun to its point is seldom less than 45, sometimes 150 degrees in length; and its breadth varies from 8 to 30 degrees."

Trenton, (New-Jersey,) Oct. 11.

A melancholy event took place in the Delaware, about two miles below this city on the 8th instant.

As one of the Bloomsbury shallops, the Tryall, was returning from Philadelphia, in putting about, opposite Lamberton, the boom suddenly passed over the quarter deck and knocked overboard, the master, Mr. George Parker, of Bloomsbury, and one of the passengers, Mr. Sampson Crane, said to be an Englishman, and an inhabitant of Philadelphia. Neither, we understand, could swim, and both sunk before any assistance could be given them, and were drowned. The bodies were found about three o'clock the following morning. Both, we are informed have left young families, who chiefly depended upon their personal exertions for support, and by whom this afflicting and melancholy dispensation of Providence will be severely felt.

STEAM-BOATS.

These vessels have now become so common and sale for the transportation of passengers and goods, that they only excite attention when they are about to perform some extraordinary voyage, and to give new facilities to commercial enterprize. We have lately seen one of our steam-boats cross the Atlantic with perfect safety, exciting the astonishment of Europeans, who, notwithstanding their jealousies, and constant attempts to underrate the genius of our countrymen, are compelled in this instance to yield the palm to America for this noble enterprize.—A steam boat of 500 tons is now receiving freight and passengers for Ohio and Kentucky, and various places on the Mississippi.

This is the first attempt of this kind, the success of which is so little doubted, that she is underwritten nearly as low as vessels commonly are between this place and New-Orleans. We cannot but consider an enterprize of this description of great public utility, and sincerely trust it may prove successful to its enterprizing projectors. [N. York D. Ad.

AN ARTICLE WORTHY THE ATTENTION OF LADIES.

At the late meeting of the Harford Agricultural Society, several articles of domestic manufacture were exhibited, of superior workmanship; and among the articles of wearing apparel were two elegant imitations of ladies Leghorn hats, made by two young ladies, from a grass common in the vicinity of Hartford. They were closely compared (says the editor of the Connecticut Mirror) with the finest Leghorns worn by the ladies in the city of Hartford, and so very curiously were they wrought, that one of them at least, was pronounced equal, if not superior, to any with which it was examined. The material of which they are made, so nearly resembles that of the genuine Leghorns, that it would be difficult, if not impossible, to distinguish one from the other. This grass is commonly known by the name of ticklematch grass; but not being able to procure a specimen in season, we are unable to give a botanical description of it at this time.

From a late London paper.

BOW STREET.

W. Brown, alias Lintot, only 12 years of age, was brought up on the extraordinary charge of stealing a hackney coach and horses. A charge of fraud was also made against him. R. W. Hebbard, driver of a hackney coach, stated, that on Sunday morning he took a party to Richmond, and on stopping at Putney bridge to pay the toll, he found the prisoner riding behind his coach. He spoke to him, and as the boy pretended to be known to several hackney coachmen he permitted him to ride on to Richmond. On his arrival there, some of the party agreed to return with him at a certain hour, and all went to dinner, leaving the boy to take care of his horses, and giving him 6d to procure refreshment. On his return some hours after he learned, to his surprise, that the boy having procured five passengers at two shillings a head, had driven off with the coach for London, and told the hostler that he was authorised to do so by the witness. The latter came to town, and having got scent of his coach, he traced it from one stand to another until he found it in Bridge-street, Blackfriars, and the young Jehu on the box. Anxious to see how the boy would behave, the witness called "coach!" and the urchin, with all the skill of an old whip, cried out, "yes, your honor!" and drew up to the pavement to let his passenger in, little dreaming who it was. He drove him to Bedford-street Covent Garden, where he got out, and asked the boy his fare; and was told 1s 6d. He then gave him in charge. On searching him 7s 3d were found in his pocket. They boy said, the prosecutor, when he saw him at Putney bridge, hired him for the day to look after the coach, while he staid at Richmond: and when he went to dinner, he desired him (the prisoner) to endeavour to procure four passengers in addition to those who had promised to return with him—that having done so, and waited long after the appointed hour, for the prosecutor's return, the gentlemen became impatient, and at their request he consented to drive them to London, knowing that the prosecutor would follow. Hebbard denied hiring, and said he gave him money merely from compassion, as he seemed hungry. The boy declared that Hebbard did hire him, and had done so before, and knew him very well. Hebbard declared on oath, that he never saw the boy until Sunday.—When questioned by the magistrate, the boy acknowledged receiving 10 shillings from the passengers, and said he treated himself with a pint of beer, and bought half a bushel of beans for the horses. This accounted for the deficiency of 2s 9d.—Remanded.

From a London Paper received at the Office of the New-York Daily Advertiser.

POLICE.

Mansion-house.—A poor bewildered creature named Elizabeth Dunham, was brought up, on a charge of having stolen the keys of the bank, on Saturday se'nnight. An officer stated that in consequence of information, he went to the prisoner's lodgings, and asked her for the keys of the bank. She at first denied that she knew any thing of them, but the officer having found them under the bed, she readily admitted she had taken them. In her apartment were found about a thousand keys, amongst which were those of the court of Chancery, Christ church, Bartholomew's hospital, &c. She told the officer that she had the best right to them, as they contained her property. "Why, (said he) you may go over the herring brook for this." "Very well, (she replied) I shall see a little more of the world—that's all.' Two chests of keys were produced, to each key a piece of paper was affixed, stating from what place it had been taken. The officer said he found no more. "Oh! (said the woman) there is another chest full which had escaped your notice." The porter of Lothbury gate stated, that he met the prisoner coming out of the lodge. She had a small basket, and he suspected she had stolen something, and ran back to ascertain, but missed nothing. He afterwards missed the keys. He identified the keys produced by the officer. The poor maniac called for justice. The country wanted reform, and she hoped the lord mayor would grant it. She had lost her husband, but she would not sell her flesh and blood for support, though solicited to do so. Lord Castlereagh was her enemy, and she had robbed the House of Commons and the House of Lords, but she defied them to touch her. She hoped that the lord mayor would allow her to go in his gilt coach to trial. It wanted painting and gilding, and could not be put to a better use. The lord mayor ordered that great care should be taken of her until her son, who supports her, should attend.

Mansion house.—Elizabeth Dunham the poor maniac, was examined a second time on Friday, upon a charge of stealing the bank keys.

The officers brought from her apartment another chest of keys, which were most of them ticketed. Amongst them were the keys of the Houses of Lords and Commons, Carlton house, and the Treasury. But the most valuable in her opinion, were the keys of lord Sidmouth's wine cellars, and those of the duke of York. The number in all was about 3000.

Her son-in-law attended. He said she was a woman of good education, and had married to great advantage.—About five years ago her husband died and left her a competency. She took a house and had lodgers, amongst whom was one man, who by a series of villanies, deprived her of the means of livelihood for herself and children, three of whom are now helpless, and unprotected. She endeavored to recover by the law, but she fell into the hands of persons in that profession who made her opinions of men still worse. The excess and variety of her misfortunes were greater than she could bear; and her senses were lost amidst the accumulated miseries by which she was surrounded. A good humored levity succeeded to the tears which used to flow at the prospect of her children's ruined expectations: and from that moment she became possessed of a sort of happiness which was only interrupted by the schemes and terrors of a wild imagination. She frequented the Courts of Law, and upon one occasion locked the twelve Judges in the Exchequer Chamber, where they were delberating upon a question of life and death. This extraordinary act she performed for the purpose, she said, of "keeping justice under lock and key," that the thousands who had been looking for it in vain, might find it at last, and be supplied with it for nothing. Soon after it occurred to her, that her own case demanded some of the powerful interference of her learned prisoners, but on going back she found that even they had violated the principles which they were bound to protect by breaking prison, and that they had left not an atom of justice behind them except their wigs. she had amongst other strange fancies supposed that every place of which she obtained possession of the keys became from that moment her own property, and had determined to leave them as an inheritance to her relatives. She was to be seen at all places of public resort. Her powers of memory are great. A number of keys were not ticketed. Upon glancing at them she mentioned from what particular rooms in houses she had taken them from, and at what time. She was fond of getting hold of the keys of a lady's dressing room or trunk, with the view of preventing the owner, to whom nature had given one face, from making hers if another. Upon one occasion she stole the keys of Horse-monger-lane Gaol, and caused the most extraordinary sensation amongst those who were most interested, for it was generally supposed that another Jack Shepherd was in the prison, and all the ingenuity of the keepers was set to work to prevent an attempt to escape. Notwithstanding her frequent attentions to this system of plunder, she was never known to neglect her children. In superintending their education she seemed to have recovered the use of her reason, for she performed the duties of a mistress with great ability and with a power of discrimination which it would be well to see imitated.

The Lord Mayor said, the poor creature must not be set at large. Her unfortunate propensity was likely to cause much mischief. ——Servants were liable to be suspected, and those who were deprived of the keys were put to great expense in supplying their losses, as well as put to serious apprehensions that the keys were taken for felonious purposes. She was remanded for a week, that some provision may be made for her, and a security provided to prevent any more frantic depredations.—She was committed.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, think that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

Was Committed,

TO the jail for the county of Alexandria on the 3d inst. as a runaway, a negro man called BEN HENDERSON, supposed to be the property of George Thornton, of King George county. The said negro is about 50 years of age; 5 feet 6 inches high; bald head; and a shoemaker by trade. The owner is desired to come prove property, pay charges, and take him away, otherwise he will be disposed of as the law directs.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. WM. MASON.
Charles County, Md. June 1.

The editors of the National Intelligencer and Baltimore Federal Gazette will insert the above until forbid, and send their accounts to Port Tobacco for payment.

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the surname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine, erect figure, good features, a smooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse cloathing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

PROSPECTUS

Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the Washington Theological REPERTORY.

EDITORS. Rev. WM HAWLEY, Washington, Rev. WM. H. WILMER, Alexandria, Rev. OLIVER NORRIS, Alexandria, Rev. REUEL KEITH, Georgetown.

Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

IF any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New-York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been matter of equal surprize and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprize of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.

The publecation will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines. But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to loose sight of that great law of charity which teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successively pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge, and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.

The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.

It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.

TERMS OF THE WORK.

A volume of the Repertory shall consist of twelve numbers, of which one shall be published on the first day of every month, containing thirty-two large octavo pages, stitched in blue, and attended with a table of contents.

The paper used in the work shall be good, and the typography executed with the greatest care.

The price of a volume is two dollars, payable in advance; to such as omit the advance, two dollars and fifty cents.

It is designed to enlarge the size of the work, without increazing the price, as soon as one thousand subscribers shall be obtained.

Communications and remittances may be directed to any of the editors, post paid.

Any person becoming responsible for five subscribers, shall receive a sixth copy gratis.

The first number may be expected in the month of July. June 26
